Ethiopian to commence three new flights

BY BEAL DERSO

ADDIS ABABA — Ethiopian Airlines disclosed that preparations have been finalized to launch flights to three new destinations—Victoria Falls, Oslo and Antananarivo—within three days starting from March 26-28, 2017.

Group CEO Tewelde Gebremariam noted that the new destinations further enhance the leadership the airline holds in connecting many cities in the African continent.

The CEO called the new move as one of the greatest expansion in the airline's history.

is one of the greatest expansions in Ethiopia's long and illustrious history. We are proud that we are able to link these new stations to the Ethiopian network in such a short period of time."

Tewelde commended the dedication employees of the airline have shown for such a success.

Victoria Falls, Oslo and Antananarivo — are three of the seven destinations Ethiopian planned to launch during the first six months of 2017.

The airline started flights to Conakry in February 2017 and plans to serve three new destinations in Asia: Chengde, Singapore and Jakarta before July 2017, according to the press release of the airline.

Ethiopian Airlines to Host Global Symposium

Ethiopian Airlines is preparing to host the International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO) Global Aviation Training and Train Air Plus symposium with the theme, "Together, Enhancing Training to Build Capacity" in Addis Abeba from April 11 to 13, 2017. This is the first time that the symposium will be held in Africa, and the fourth time globally.

"We are happy to be hosting a symposium that will bring major industry players together to exchange best practices and experiences in human resources development and aviation training," said Tewelde Gebremariam, CEO of Ethiopian Airline. "It will be especially useful to exchange ideas on the training and train air plus program for the advancement of global aviation."

"The symposium will also be an opportunity to introduce our Aviation Academy which can accommodate more than 4,000 trainees, and will receive trainees from all over Africa as we have to fulfill local demand," he added.

Close to 500 people are expected to attend the event.

Oromia Farmers Association recognizes the support of Ethiopian

MekiBatu Farmers Association, under Oromia Cooperative and Promotion Agency, has applauded the support of Ethiopian Group Chief Executive Officer, Tewelde Gebremariam for his tremendous support and commitment in creating business opportunities for farmers association in Oromia region.

Representing a total of 8,300 farmers in 150 unions; Board Chairman of the union, high officials from the Oromia cooperatives and management of the union has handed over the award; reiterating their appreciation for his continued support in strengthening their capability and facilitating better market opportunities.

Group CEO Ethiopian Airlines, Tewelde during the event said "we are glad with the progress and promising achievements in the business partnership Ethiopian has established with Oromia Farmers Association. We have been supporting the union with technical advice, market development, production quality, process improvement, as well as sourcing of equipment to enhance productivity. Moreover, this business set up has enabled us to serve our customers with fresh and organic food onboard our flight. Way forward, we shall synergize with the farmers' association in fostering market integration while ensuring delivery of quality, export oriented products. Currently, MekiBatu Farmers Union supplies Inflight Catering Center with fresh fruits and vegetables direct from their farm, while LumeAdama Farmers Cooperatives union is supplying wheat flour for Ethiopian Catering."

Ethiopian Catering currently provides in-flight catering services for more than 240 Ethiopian daily departing flights, VIP and Charter flights, which often shuttle to and from Addis Ababa hub, as well as to Ethiopian customer airlines flying to Addis Ababa.

ETHIOPIA

Is Ethiopia finally the next big thing in Africa travel?

In the late 1950s, Ethiopian Airlines launched an advertising campaign in the Western media that touted the ancient kingdom as Africa's "newest travel adventure." More than half a century later, the huge East African nation has yet to live up to that lofty billing...

The sights, the scenery, the culture are already there. Ethiopian's ancient orthodox Christianity has endowed the nation with thousands of churches and monasteries, some of them enshrined as UNESCO World Heritage Sites.

A succession of empire and kingdoms added medieval forts, palaces and tombs like the Gondar citadel and the towering stone stele of Axum.

From Lake Tana and the Blue Nile to the red-rock Gheralta Mountains, the arid Danakil Desert and the lush Omo Valley, the landscapes are astounding and incredibly varied. Ethiopia's wildlife riches are also diverse, from typical African savannah animals in the south to unique indigenous creatures like the gelada baboon and Ethiopian wolf.

The missing ingredient has always been infrastructure - the kind of hotels, restaurants and service that tourism rivals like Kenya and South Africa mastered decades ago.

A turning point

"Tourism was on the back burner for a long time," says Solomon Tadesse, CEO of the Ethiopian Tourism Organization (ETO). "The country was going through major changes and the government's priorities were health, education, communication." ...

"There were fundamental reasons why tourism infrastructure was not in place." According to Tadesse, the government finally decided in 2013 that tourism could generate jobs, income and wealth just like any other economic sector.

A tourism transformation council was established to provide direction to the industry and the ETO was created to handle marketing, promotion and product development.

The tourism push coincided with a massive upsurge in foreign investment from China, India, Turkey and other nations that boosted GDP to annual growth rates of around 10%. With the Ethiopian economy going like gangbusters, tourism is slowly but surely moving toward the great expectations generated more than half a century ago.
